New times call for new sets of skills.

Maya has developed herself as a diverse and tech-savvy leader in the past years. She has developed unique skills that help her lead companies and teams as Chief Operations Officer and VP of Operations of three startups and advisor to other emerging tech groups. In addition, she built enterprise platforms and mobile apps that connect people and solve social issues facing our species.

She brings her experience and technological understanding of digital technology, narrative, system thinking, and collaborating with multiple diverse teams and stakeholders to all projects.
